

Synopsis:
By Sebastian Casares

Title: Senseless

Genre: Sci-fi/ noire

Logline:

In a society which has a strong control over people's emotions, a progressively conscience incident's investigator starts to question her surroundings when she witness progressively increasing socially accepted cruelty.

-

Cora is an incident's investigator who reports on the reaction rates of a sedated society to specific incidents. The progressive increase in chaos and cruelty starts to wake Cora from this sedation. Cora understands that she is being monitored closely by a network of figures who monitor their monitors and each other. Cora has gone too far with her emotional presence on the grid and now fears for her life. Cora seems to lose control in a futile attempts to cause civil unrest. Her efforts are confronted by the justice system which reprocess her. Cora is left to fend for herself at the bottom of the chain of command with a repurposed conscience.